International Sustainable Development Conference 2020

Theme: Our Common Future

27-28 November 2020 Pingtung, Taiwan

Host: National Pingtung University of Science and Technology (NPUST)

The 1st International Sustainable Development Conference (ISDC 2020) will be hosted by National Pingtung University of Science and Technology (NPUST) located in Pingtung, Taiwan on 27-28 November, 2020. In particular, as NPUST marching toward the centennial, ISDC is serving as a collaboration-oriented platform to promote interdisciplinary, transdisciplinary and international cooperation. The overarching theme of ISDC 2020 is “Our Common Future” to welcome various disciplines or even non-academic, namely practitioners, to discuss our common future topics in the age of Anthropocene.

To facilitate the exchange of best practices and innovative researches worldwide in the transdisciplinary fields of sustainable development, this year’s conference is divided into four topics, co-organizing with four NPUST partner universities – University of Brawijaya (UB) and IPB University in Indonesia, Rajamangala University of Technology Thanyaburi (RMUTT) in Thailand and Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM) in Malaysia. We are also specially delighted to be joined by Kasetsart University (KU), International Association for Agriculture Sustainability (IAAS) and University Network for Tropical Agriculture (UNTA) as our valued co-organizers.

- A. Disaster Prevention & Recovery – co-organized with UB, Indonesia
- B. Smart Agriculture – co-organized with UPM, Malaysia
- C. Circular Economy – co-organized with RMUTT, Thailand
- D. Ecosystem Restoration – co-organized with IPB, Indonesia

We cordially invite our partner schools to take advantage of this academic exchange opportunity to visit us in Taiwan, to assemble inter-national and inter-disciplinary research teams, to share research results, to publish and thrive together. TOGETHER, We can HELP.
