- CARE consider GBV are any harm done to another, against that person’s will, based on gender: in other words, violence sanctioned by social norms about appropriate behaviours, characteristics and roles of women and of men.
If a man who cannot earn money much for the family:
  • Blame of himself...
  • Tries to prove his masculinity by violence

If a woman who does not do such work as well as expected:
  • Be violated
  • Be prohibited
  • Be quarreled

GBV ECONOMIC TOLL ON THE PEOPLE AND THE COUNTRY

- Annual financial costs of GBV to national economies:
  - A $8.1 billion in Australia
  - £23 billion in the United Kingdom;
  - Between US$8.3 billion and US$12.6 billion in the United States.

- In Vietnam: GBV accounted for 1.41% of the GDP in Viet Nam that stood at 2,536,000 billion VND in 2010.
GBV ECONOMIC TOLL ON THE PEOPLE AND THE COUNTRY

- Women experiencing violence earn 35% less than those not abused.
- In Vietnam, an estimate of overall productivity loss comes to 1.78% of GDP
THE RISK OF REMOTE ETHNIC MINORITY WOMEN (RENW)

- REMW are more likely to be poor because of their isolation,
- More likely to be marginalized because of their lower social status in comparison to ethnic minority men.
- Violence makes REM women more vulnerable to poverty.
  - It affects their productivity and earnings
  - Prevents them from participating fully in social and economic activities.
THE GAP IN RESEARCH

• The data available on GBV are not disaggregated by ethnicity.

• Data is lack of analytical depth, overlooking in particular relations between the EM groups themselves, and relations between individual EM groups and the majority Kinh.

• Little is known about gender-based violence against ethnic minorities in the public sphere although Several recent studies note incidents of sexual abuse and the prevalence of sexual violence among Northern ethnic minorities.
GAP IN POLICY AND INTERVENTION

- GBV/ Domestic violence is not in EM action plan
- The lack of coordination among government bodies in developing a legal framework on DV
- It is not the priority:
  - It is considered as individual and family concern
CONCLUSION

- It is clear that, GBV is not only a problem for individuals
- It is the issue for society and the economic toll of GBV should be an alarm to any poverty reduction or sustainable programming.
RECOMMENDATION

- More in-depth research on the prevalence and on the cultural and social causes of the GBV must be carried out.
- The program design should be consulted with gender or GBV experts.
- GBV prevention or response might be a part of the program or be integrated in major components.
